OF A YEAR IN OBERLIN

Is the forty-ninth in a series of Hi-O-Hi's published by the junior class. Into its compilation has gone the cooperation of all the four classes. This volume partakes and is, therefore, of those who linger on its pages.

JUNE, 1937

OBERLIN, OHIO

FOUR from the allotted three score and ten may seem insignificant, unless they be spent in Oberlin. These are the only years, perhaps, in which you are on the inside looking out, as did Scrooge, at the past, the present, and the world that is to come. The present seems most vital—rec tomorrow night, that column for the Review, bluebook on Monday. But without a reminder, these two will fade.

The Hi-O-Hi is a memorandum of one of these years. The staff has jotted down for you reminders of the day it didn't rain, the insane moment before a touchdown when you mashed your best hat, the kind prof who passed you with a D+. This is Oberlin, and the Hi-O-Hi its record. May its pages be thumbworn, and its cover cover never dusty.

*M*ATERIALS and an idea a man needs to build something. Materials: cement, camel's hair, red paint, rusty tin cans; ideas: a television radio, a cure for cancer, a bridge across the Hudson. With these two essentials—materials and ideas—man can build whence he chooses.

In the Hi-O-Hi for June, 1937, we have used our materials—paper, photography, printer's ink—and our idea—a yearbook that features and preserves the action and activity of an Oberlin year—and put the two together, retaining what we thought good in yearbooks of the past but not letting them dictate arrangement, pictures, color, type, that would shade our idea, so that our purpose could be realized as full as possible with the materials we have to work with.

 One Helms of Pittsburgh, Oberlin college senior, opened sleepy eyes yesterday morning and looked into the tragic and angry face of Allen
 Bailey of Ashabula. O., a classmate.
 "Did you see the paper this morning?" asked Bailey.
 Straight up in bed sat Helms, stu-

 held on the Oberlin campus Friday and Saturday.

BEFORE THE MOCK CONVENTION . . .

The "Big Top" measured two hundred feet by eighty feet, and was twenty-five feet high. On the rostrum at the north center were seated convention officials, representatives of the press, convention stenographers, and broadcasting officials with microphones.

Delegates occupied the center of the tent . . . 1001 of them. Bleachers around the end held 1800 visiting high school students, alumni, general public . . . and cats and dogs.

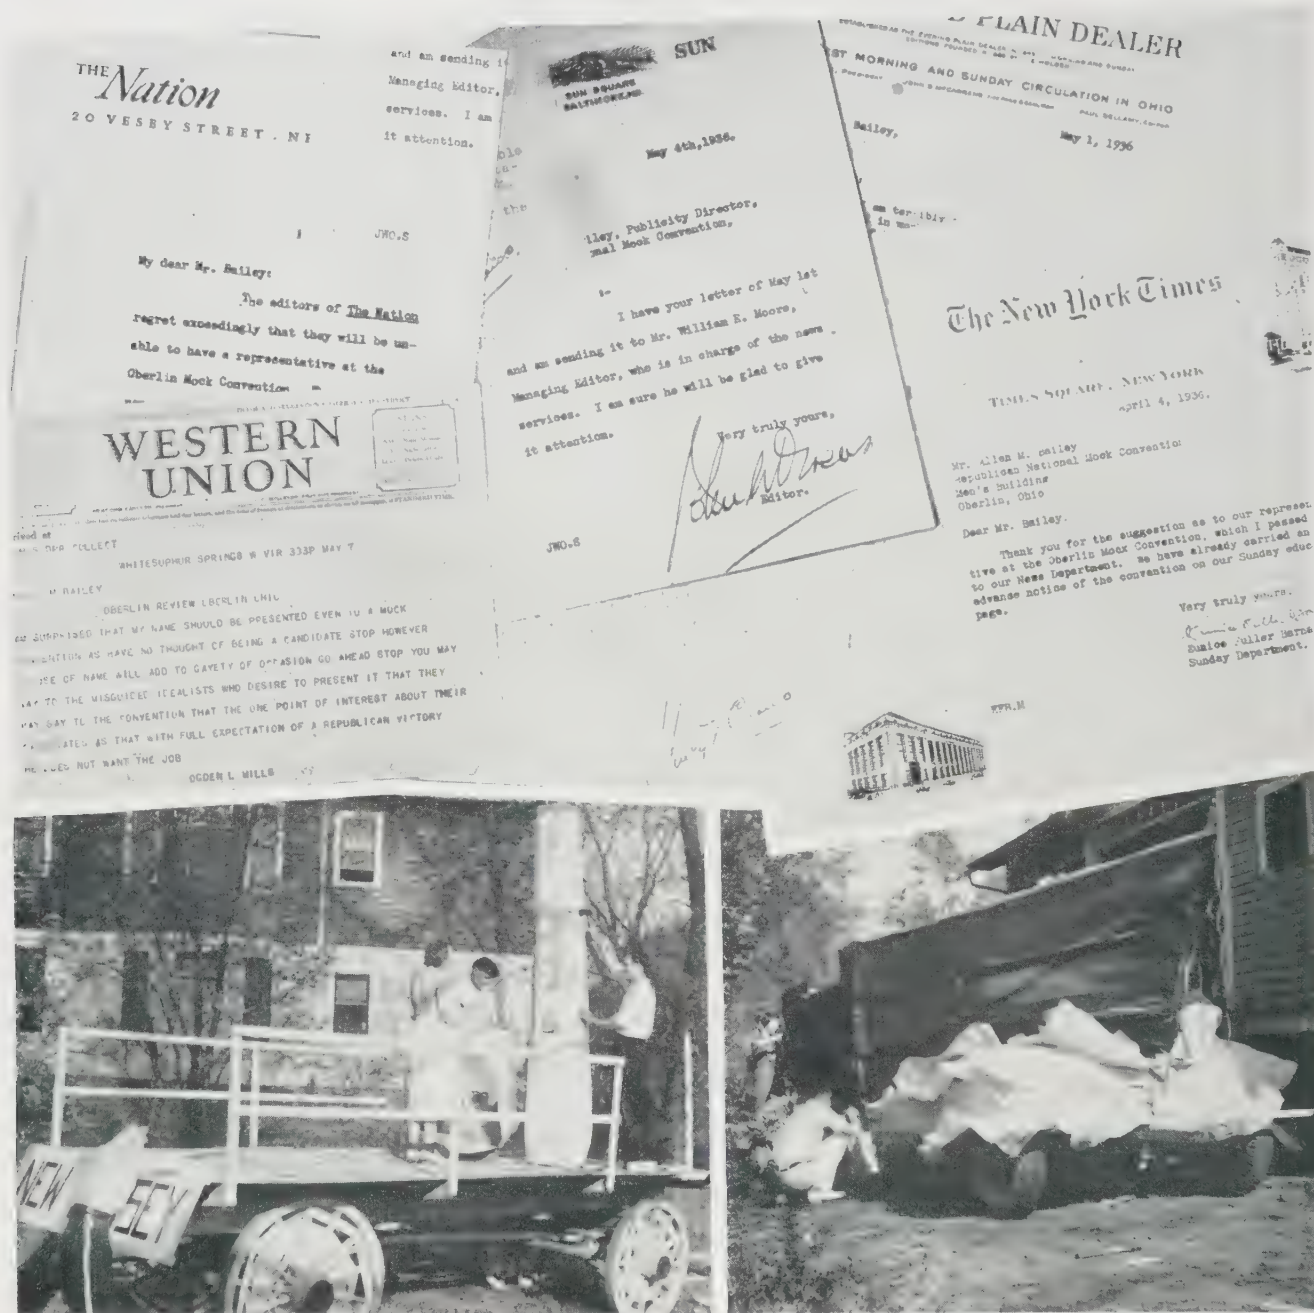

BORAH! . . . Vote for Landon! . . . Vote for Knox! . . . Vandenberg is the Man! . . . Everyday after chapel for three weeks before the convention was in session, political orators accompanied by booming bands shouted into portable mikes . . . But no one paraded for Mr. Winant, the man Oberlin was to nominate.

Letters and telegrams—hundreds of them—were written to potential candidates, to editors, to prominent alumni, inviting them to come or asking for a “good word.”

Letters and telegrams—hundreds of them—came back, accepting, refusing, giving their good wishes.

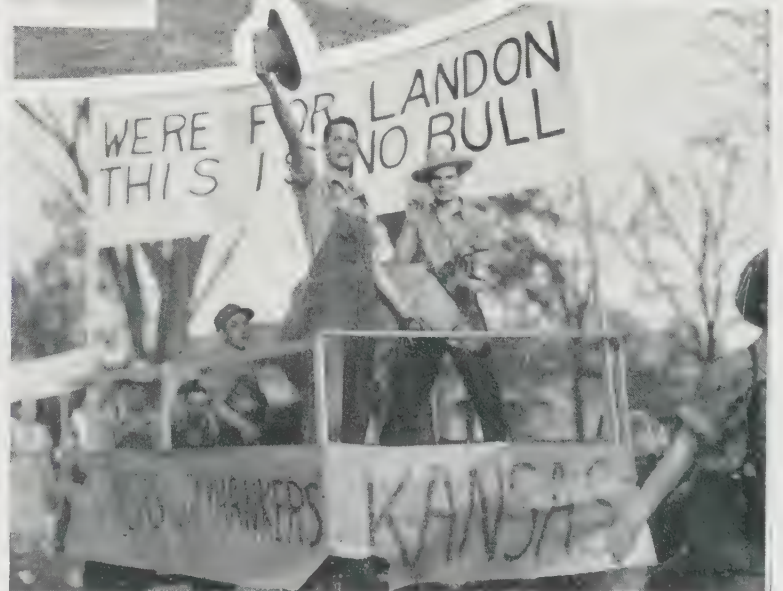

After parade plans were completed there followed the job for delegation members of haggling with suspicious neighboring farmers for the use of a hay rack, a team of horses, a cow, a goat, a donkey. All the stationery, hardware, five and ten, and department stores were emptied of colored paints, inks, papers, dry goods that had accumulated for four years. Empty lots, cellars, wood sheds, garages concealed the workers from inquisitive eyes as they constructed their floats for the big parade.

Oberlin alumni came to the rescue at the last minute. Students thought their parade would be elephantless, but the alumni, upon the suggestion of Bob Stephan, radio editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, paid sixty dollars to the Cleveland Artificial Flower Company for the use of a mechanical elephant, which had appeared in a floor show in Cleveland's May-fair Casino. Evelyn Moulton, with help from Electrician Harvey, mounted the paper mache beast, and led the parade.

FOR CRYIN' IN THE BEER

Bathing beauties, Popeye's Jeep, William Randolph Wurst, mountaineer dancers and fiddlers, the Boston Tea Party, Simon Legree, Abraham Lincoln, Liberty, several bulls, a dog team, cow boys and cow girls, hula-hula dancers, two-and three-seater bikes, ducks, chickens made up a mile-long parade.

The Judging Committee was composed of President and Mrs. E. H. Wilkins, Mayor and Mrs. C. R. Comings, Mr. and Mrs. Don Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Haylor, and Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Fenn. Mr. Gifford Pinchot was guest of honor.

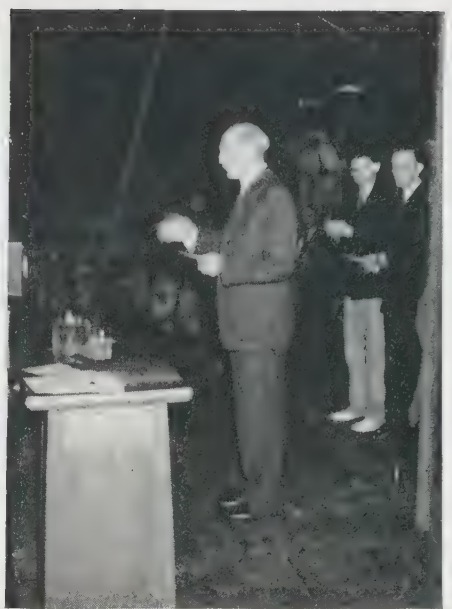

The judges, who sat in a reviewing stand in front of the Art Building, gave first prize to Ohio's delegation, which portrayed Brain Trusters stirring alphabet soup of the New Deal. Honorable mention went to Massachusetts with its Tea Party; to Utah with its covered wagon driven by Brigham Young accompanied by his several wives and an army of children; to Pennsylvania with its funeral of the "Nu-Deal;" to Kentucky with its "Queen of the Bluegrass." According to the Plain Dealer, "In a long line of Mock Convention Parades, this was easily the best."

"Now it seems to me if Ohio and New York will only swing to Landon after playing up their favorite . . ." "You know, I saw the duckiest red . . ." "Say, who's that talkin' up there now?"

Here y'are! Getcha roasted, toasted, sugar-coated California almonds . . . Getcha balloon on a stick, b'loon on a stick! Here y'are! Candy, choon gum, peanuts, popcorn, pop, peanuts . . . Here y'are . . .

"The American people need—God knows how much they need—a generation of public men whose honor is clear, whose motives are clean, and whose intelligence is up to the level of their task."—Governor Pinchot.

May 8, 1936, 7:00 P. M., Carl Helms, national chairman, called the convention to order; National Secretary Richard Aszling issued the Call for the Convention. Mr. William (Bill) Seaman extended a welcome to the delegates and 2,000 visitors. The response was made by Mr. Frank A. Stetson, chairman of the Republican Committee of Lorain.

Three minutes of sustained cheering and applause greeted the honorable Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania, as he mounted the rostrum. Himself an Oberlin Mock Convention nominee for vice-president on the very liberal platform of 1924, Pinchot clariioned for a revamped Republican party, and with his keynote sounded, speeded to Elyria accompanied by a screaming motorcycle escort to catch an eastbound train.

The remainder of the evening, until 1:20 A. M., was devoted to a debate on fourteen of the twenty-two proposed planks of the National Mock Republican platform. With little exception, all of the fourteen planks discussed were adopted with slight changes. Birth Control legislation was the only plank in the preliminary platform draft which failed to pass. Just as it was stricken from the record, a power tube that had been worrying Chief Electrician Harvey gave out and temporarily put an end to debate.

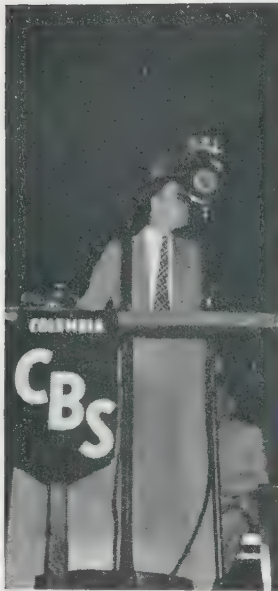

Time and time again after the hour of midnight the convention tried to adjourn, but the sleepy conventioners persisted in trying to finish their job . . . at an early morning hour with the amplifying system on the blink, they decided to meet at ten that same morning to finish building a platform.

The special session of the Mock Convention called for 10 A. M. on Saturday, May 9, was adjourned at 12:20 P. M., with the platform completely formulated. The League of Women Voters having rallied, aided in putting the convention on record as favoring birth control. Also backed were resolutions on federal anti-lynching legislation; Hawaiian statehood, free speech by students and teachers under the civil liberties clause, and fish conservation. Glen Jorgensen presided at this session, relieving Carl Helms.

At 7:00 P. M., National Chairman Carl Helms opened the final session of nineteenth quadriennial Oberlin Mock Convention. Attorney-General John W. Bricker, of Ohio, presided as permanent chairman during the balloting for the Party's candidate for president and vice-president of the United States.

Alf Landon, Frank Knox, and Senator Borah were among the leaders. A clever strategic campaign by the Vandenberg faction had boosted the unwilling Senator into a first-rate contender. In view of a four-cornered deadlock, a dark horse candidacy loomed strong. Of John G. Winant, said the "Elephant," special newspaper of the convention, "he is not doped to rate a great deal of support on successive roll-calls, but he is a possibility."

The results of vote-trading, double-crossings, and threats, are seen by examining the ballot box. In the seventh ballot, a dark horse, Winant, received the nomination. The nation's press hailed the choice as wise and "indicative of the youthful spirit of the times."

Among those nominated for Vice-President were Gannet, Steiwer, and Mae West. Miss West received a great ovation when she was nominated by the Alaska delegation; Senator Steiwer, Oregon's native son, lacked the ovation but received the nomination.

In 1860 an Oberlin College Men's Literary Society, holding the first Mock Convention, started an idea which has blossomed every four years except once. The 1936 convention was the first ever to rate a national hook-up. Oberlin alumni who remembered their mock conventions, held special parties from coast to coast, and listened to a half hour broadcast which lengthened into an hour as Winant delegates sweated under the big top to bring honor to the former New Hampshire governor. A crew of Columbia and WHK technicians cleared the wires to the Cleveland transmitter. Program director Larry Roller of WHK proved to be an able cheerleader, and Bob Trout, ace CBS announcer, just through with the Kentucky derby, found the Oberlin convention more exciting than a horse race.

Two one hundred foot ropes covered with daisies made up the daisy chain which the junior women carried the day they received the caps and gowns as a symbol of becoming seniors. After the two classes of women had marched to the arch with the juniors carrying the chain, the seniors sang, changed caps and gowns for the chain, and carried it to the plot between Peters and Warner where they left the daisy covered rope as a huge "36".

About nine hundred alumni gathered in Warner Gym on June 9, 1936, to attend the Alumni Luncheon. After the singing of "Ten Thousand Strong" the welcoming address was given by Dr. Mosher to the Class of 1936. George Manlove, president of the graduating class, gave a speech. Among the classes present were: 1886, 65.7% strong; 1896, 42% present; and 1876, 40% present. The gift of $50,000 to scholarships was given by R. T. Miller of the Class of '91.

Rope and Japanese lanterns, dusty, musty, dug out from a year's storage, dusted and hung; threatening clouds, thoughts of rain. With these forerunners, illumination night glowed forth while alumni and students wandered to and fro with Chinese coolie hats and striped canes. Future alumni consumed chocolate sprinkled ice cream cones and played tap-the-ice-box in the semi-darkness. And the glow of friendship and cheer surpassed that of the Japanese lanterns.

John Erskine, "poet, novelist, scholar, musician, and teacher," accepted the invitation of the Class of 1936 to be their Commencement speaker.

H. M. Robinson, author, describes him as being "a huge mast of a man with a bright rudder of a nose, a humorous slanting mouth, a sabre wit." His lectures on literature are an event to the students of Columbia who often cut classes to attend them.

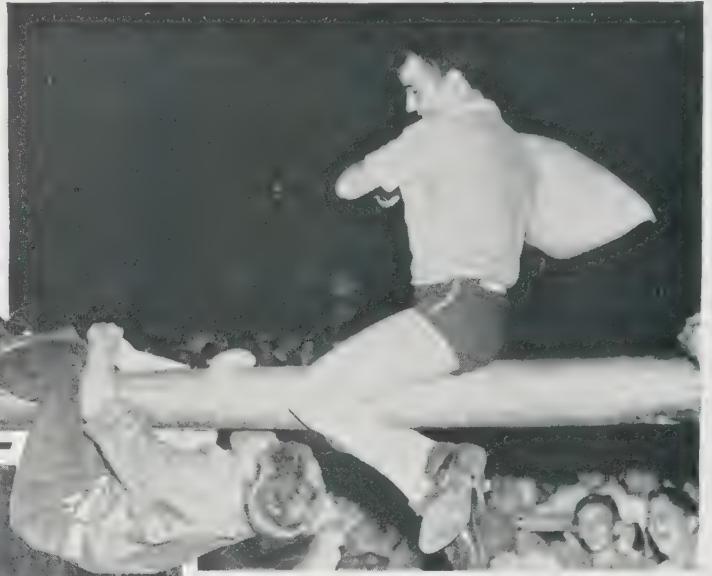

On May 15, 1936, Oberlin College received news that Dean Mildred McAfee of Oberlin was to become President McAfee of Wellesley. She had come to Oberlin in 1934 as one of the youngest deans of women in the history of the college. In regard to leaving Dean McAfee declared herself "proud to be admitted to the class of 1936 and the Alumni of Oberlin College."

One of the famed Dorsey Brothers, Tommy, found that he could not keep his date with the Oberlin Seniors for their Prom this past June; the Prom Committee found something better, so the seniors seemed to feel, in the "one-man show"—Duke Ellington. It was, in the words of a freshman who remained to hear him, "hot stuff!"

Frosh Week—a week of campus tours, grade explanations, examinations, buying of fancy souvenir bric-a-brac for the sweethearts at home. And while the women had a “ship” party at the Men’s Gym, frosh men ate and ate and fought with pillows at Chance Creek. They had a mixer, too—one of those shirt sleeves and suspenders affairs—where the greenies learned to start, “You’re a senior, aren’t you?” not “Are you a freshman, too?”

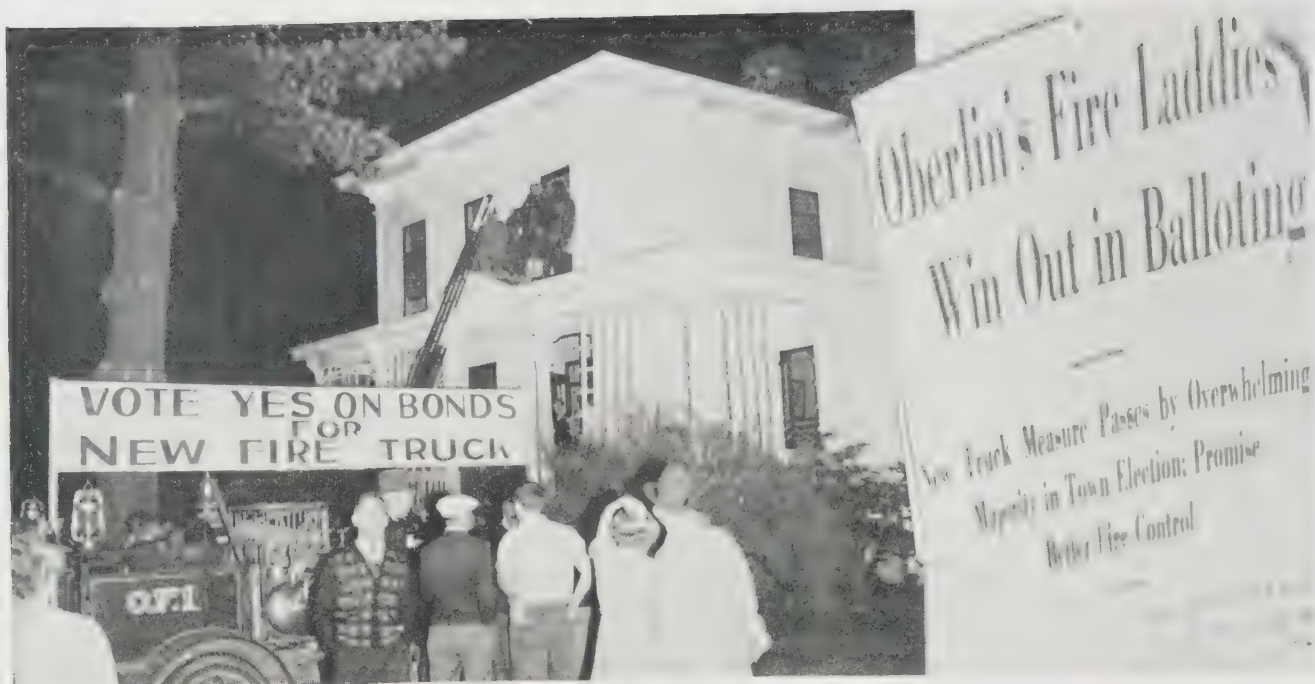

Then the sophs returned—the week of bliss was over. “A bonfire frosh!” to start the year off right. “Tip your cap frosh,” and bonnets, “40” bedecked, for the girls. Shoes to shine, beds to make on Sundays, the Generals teeth to brush. And most fun of all the trip to Chance Creek for Third West Section of the M. B. with Oberlin Yellow Cab to the rescue.

Official soph frosh hostilities were opened Saturday, October 3, when the two under-classes met on each side of a six-foot pushball and proceeded to the place of the tie-up and the greased-flag-pole climb. The sophs won this contest by, as the Review said, “a bit of well-executed strategy.” It was agreed that this battle seemed more fair than the greased-pole flag rush, when the team on the defense had the advantage.

"Where there's smoke there's fire," they say. The fire engine furnished the smoke, and Dascomb tried the fire, which resulted in the burning of a few dresses and some coats. The affair gave the "laddies" a good chance to show off the advertising which later brought in the dividends.

The "O" Club and the Women's League were to blame. It seemed that Oberlin students did not make enough noise at the football games . . . so the "O" Club and the Ladies' League started an Anti-Anti-Noise Campaign. Their first move was to have segregated seating at the football games with the men sitting in the top section of the stadium, and the women at the bottom. For a while, the plan was successful. According to the Review of October 13 "Men come to the football games; women come to the same games. Some come alone; some come in groups. A few come without dates; at least a few come with dates. A few men deposit their dates in the women's section and call for them after the game; quite a few sit with their dates." The cheering was much better at that game . . . but not any more than at any winning game.

Once in the corner where the Talcott walk comes to the W. College-S. Professor corner was the famous Talcott Tree. Used as the campus sign board till there was no more room for a tack to be driven in, it was cut down in 1920. Several attempts have been made to replace it. This year an elm—a seedling from the historic elm—was planted on the fiftieth anniversary of Talcott, and perhaps by Talcott's hundredth anniversary the new Talcott tree will have reached sign board size again.

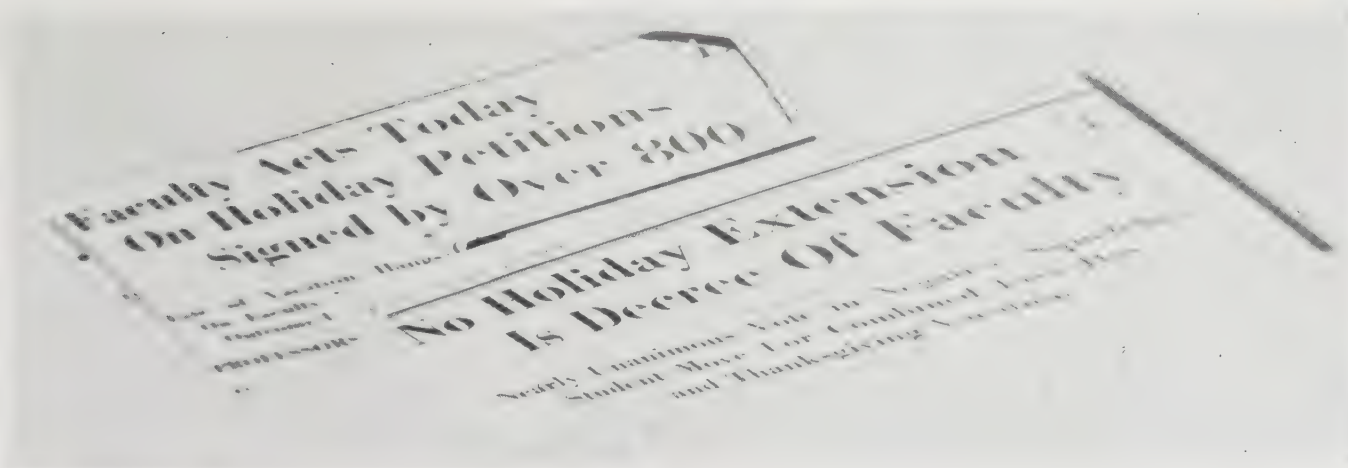

On Tuesday, October 13, Richard Bonelli came to Oberlin. Bonelli, once a student of mechanical engineering at Syracuse, University, was advised to take up singing. Reluctantly Bonelli studied singing for some years merely as an avocation, working at odd jobs here and there at the same time, so that he could continue his education. When the opportunity came to sing in opera Bonelli was ready to take it, and in 1932 he signed a contract with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

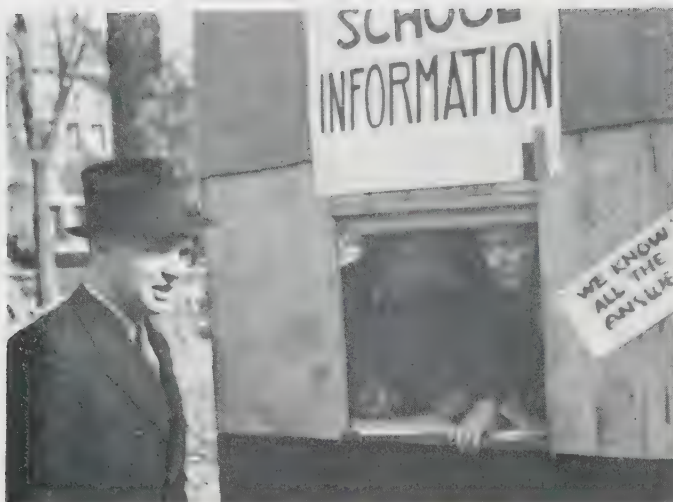

According to a well-known reviewer "here is one of the world's voices handled by one of the most intelligent and inspired of men."

"In the death of Doren Lyon, Oberlin College has lost a most faithful and highly valued worker . . . He was perpetually genial and splendidly cooperative . . . He was a good workman, a good chief, a good colleague, a good companion. He lived a good life, and will be remembered in affection and in honor."—Ernest H. Wilkins.

Saturday, October 24, found Oberlin Campus invaded by 900 inquisitive high school students, teachers, parents, and friends who came to participate in High School Day activities from eleven nearby states. Of these, 336 took part in the competition for scholarships, the value of which amounted to $5400.

Instead of the usual intercollegiate football game, the high school students witnessed intramural contests, lab demonstrations, and an "Oberlin Review."

Those who cared to remain, took part in the Annual Campus Carnival which was held that evening under the "big top" erected between Warner and Peters.

Late that evening special busses were crowded with sleepy high school boys and girls over-laden with toy-balloons, canes, and candy dolls.

The Y. M. C. A. has held Wednesday night square dances regularly in Warner Gymnasium in an effort to revive interest in the fast-dying folk dances of our country—Grapevine Twist, Ducky Dive, Ocean Wave. The large attendance has attested their success.

During the month of October the W. A. A. made an effort to demonstrate to the students the three techniques of the modern dance by the work and lectures of four artists of the modern dance, Conna Bell Shaw, Lillian Shapero, Katherine Litz, and Jose Limon.

“As Oberlin Goes, So Goes Not the Nation” is the new slogan given the students of Oberlin. First in our Mock Convention we nominate the wrong man . . . one who does not even care to run . . . and a New Dealer at that, and in the election straw vote we pick a man who got the worst licking of any president.

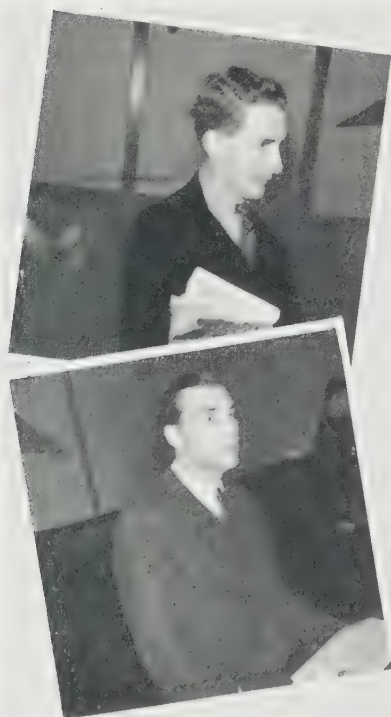

Oberlin was Republican in a year when the country went more Democratic than ever before. But then, Oberlin has been traditionally Republican since Lincoln’s day. The boxes on this page compare the votes of Oberlin with those of the nation and the state.

On the evenings of November 20 and 21 the Pirates of Penzance came to town with a dress circle and all seats reserved. This Gilbert and Sullivan production presented by the Dramatic Association brought in such large crowds that "S. R. O." signs were put out for the first time in many years.

The Pirates of Penzance centers around the life of a young man who, through an error on the part of his nurse, was licensed to a pirate instead of a pilot until he reached his twenty-first birthday. Having been born on February 29, he found "a most ingenious paradox;" he had had only five birthdays although he was twenty-one years old. But it had the usual happy ending with the hero and heroine in each others arms, and the pirates repenting their sins.

Rennie Smith came to Oberlin late in the fall to talk on "War and Peace." Once he called himself a politician, but because of the American connotation quickly changed his definition of himself.

Dr. Brooks Emeny, peace author and Oberlin trustee said: "The will-to-war does not exist in the European masses, and German horror pictures of the Spanish War not only serve to show the superiority of the German system, but to create a feeling against war!"

To quote Oley Down, Jr., Conservatory senior, "Rudolph Serkin's recital put one in a state of bewildered questioning." "Yes, he does possess an astounding technique, my dear," to quote Donald Ogden Stuart, "but so does an electric piano!" But the Senior Class of the Con was angry! "We have seldom heard a pianist's performance which so admirably combined that penetrating analysis with artistic enthusiasm and warm feeling—an occasion to remember."

On Tuesday night, December 15, Artur Rodzinski, led the Cleveland Orchestra in a concert in Finney Chapel for the last time of the season.

Shortly after Dr. Rodzinski went to New York to step into the shoes of Artur Toscanini on February 22 as leader of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and acted as regular conductor of that orchestra for the remainder of the season. Later he was appointed director of the NBC Concert Orchestra.

Of Helen Jepson, young American soprano star of the Metropolitan Opera Company who sang in Oberlin on December 4, the Cincinnati Enquirer said, "Miss Jepson not only has a glorious voice, but she is really beautiful. She is, besides, very animated, charming and intelligent—a trilogy of girls not always present in the Diva of the concert stage."

North . . . East . . . West . . . South went the majority of Oberlin students on December 19 . . . Back home to study . . to sleep . . . and to sleep . . . Only a handful remained in Oberlin. The person to travel the farthest this year was Betty Roome, who went 2600 miles to her home in Santa Barbara. Hugh Hansen, who lives in Palo Alto, went 2550 miles to his home.
 Margaret Nichol went to Tacoma, Washington, and Ellis Sprunger to San Francisco.

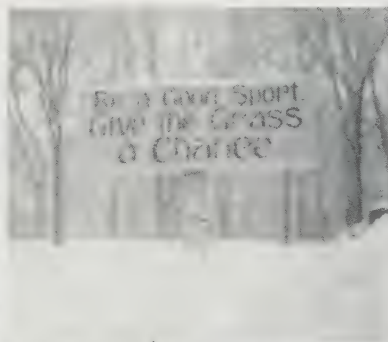

Going by air were Julia Van der May,
 North Caldwell, N. J.; Henry Brobst of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Barbara Hastings of Newtonville, Mass.; and Eleanor Neel and Margaret Lyon planned to take a plane to Jacksonville, Florida.

Taking advantage of new low rates more students went by train to their homes this year than ever before. A large number of special cars were rented by the students for Philadelphia, Baltimore, New York, and other large cities.

No wonder it always rains during Freshman Week, for here in Oberlin April is not the month of showers, but, during the school year, it's September—so the Oberlin Weather Station tells us. Nor does it rain "all the time," or even half the time, or a third of the time. Last year there were 112 days when it rained more than one one-hundredth of an inch. And we had 129 days that were entirely clear.

Oberlin's hottest day in 1936, according to records was 101 degrees in July, compared with the all-time high of 105 degrees made in August, 1918; last year's coldest was —12 degrees in January, eleven degrees higher than the all-time low struck in 1912. 1936's first killing frost was October 28, and its amount of snow, 40.2 inches. "Oberlin Weather"—a distinct department of conversation—according to the weather reviewers here, "is just good normal weather for this part of the country, no wetter, no colder, in fact just normal."

On February 5, a member of the class of '91 and a trustee of Oberlin College, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, the physicist, addressed the noonday assembly. He has been a trustee of Oberlin since 1918 and last addressed the students in June, 1933, at the centennial graduation. Millikan spoke of the problems confronting youth, saying, "Economic tyranny is easy to control because of the political law which exists above it, but a vastly greater danger is when a man is on top of government; . . . then there is nothing but political despotism."

Vitamin A, valuable for its anti-infectious properties and found in fish liver oils, especially those of halibut and cod, has long been sought in pure form by the medical profession. Two years ago Dr. Holmes and his research assistants surprised the world with a concentrate of Vitamin A which they announced at a chemical meeting in New York City.

This year Dr. Harry N. Holmes, head of the Oberlin Chemistry Department, and Miss Ruth Corbet, research assistant, announced the preparation of needle-like crystals which they believed to be pure Vitamin A. This crystalline concentrate was first obtained on November 23.

Ballantine, Former Oberlin President, Passes on at 88

President of Oberlin for five years after President Fairchild.

During the Christmas Holidays, Dr. J. Herbert Nichols, Oberlin Director of Athletics addressed the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

"The small school," said he, "may continue to struggle, to attempt to compete, to offer athletic scholarships and special inducements, to bring in a few super athletes, to play a money schedule with most of its games away from home, and still take in enough money to hold a high-powered coach and be fairly successful financially and in the won and lost column. Eventually, however, they will lose out. They will find that the educational price they have paid for a false athletic prestige has been a dear one. A number of institutions have discovered this in the past."

His message was hailed by the press of the nation. Athletic departments of various colleges sought non-profit games with Oberlin, among those leading the way was Johns Hopkins. So, as in co-education, as in negro education, Oberlin leads the way in inaugurating a national non-profit athletic policy.

Dr. Nichols Assails Hypocrisy, Deceit In 'Big Time' Intercollegiate Athletics; Outlines Program For Small Colleges

Friday, January

Characterizing the athletic contest of many contemporary educational institutions as "hypocritical and deceit," Dr. J. Herbert Nichols, Oberlin Director of Athletics, said today.

Johns Hopkins Abolishes Gate Receipts, Avoids Commercialism

In accordance with the suggestion of Dr. J. H. Nichols at the December meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, that all colleges abolish the gate receipt plan — Johns Hopkins University announced.

Flood Relief Goal Set Here At $300 Fund

Flood Threatens Parents, Relatives Of Students Here

Although the melancholy waters of the Ohio river have not inundated Oberlin's halls of learning, it has, with a terrible, silent energy, wreaked havoc on thousands of people and their lives.

On February 6 the Oberlin Men's Glee Club presented its fifty-eighth annual concert. Besides the Glee Club itself, was presented the Glee Club quartet, which consisted of Ben Tufts, bass; Glesner Griffin, baritone; Tom Edwards, tenor; and Lloyd Linder, tenor; and in between the two parts of the Glee Club presentation Larry Gill and his orchestra played.

This year the group toured Southern Ohio, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania on their annual Christmas holiday trip.

Nathan Milstein, called by critics, "The Magnificent" gave Oberlin a sample of his violin virtuosity on February 9. Of Mr. Milstein, Lawrence Gilman wrote, "Mr. Milstein is an artist of sensitive perceptions and adaptability. His feeling for style is unusually delicate and sure."

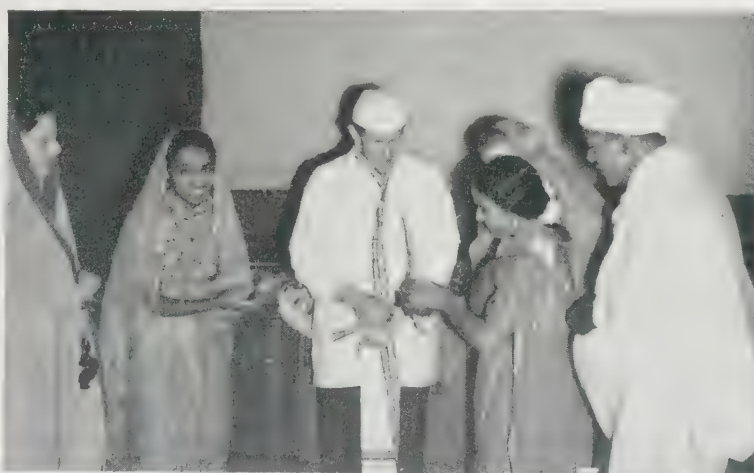

Pitts Sanborn, a New York critic, said, "He played with brilliant tone, unfailing grace, appropriate feeling and irresistible virtuosity . . . a memorable concert."

Plans for a series of Oberlin-on-the-air broadcasts fell through this year because of previous commercial entanglements made by WTAM. However, on February 14, from 1:00 until 1:30, the 91-piece Oberlin Orchestra under the direction of Professor Maurice Kessler entertained radio listeners.

Before only the faculty and guests the Faculty players presented their previews of "The First Year," in February. Apparently it passed the board for it was later—early April—produced in Warner Hall for the general public. Here we saw that they were human, could cut-up and have as much fun as we could.

Mrs. Sue Bailey Thurman, national secretary of the Y. W. C. A., a graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory in 1923, and a delegate to the Student Christian movement in India, spoke in Chapel on Thursday, February 18, on the "Status of Women in India."

Mrs. John M. Kyle (upper left), vocational director and consultant, opened the Women's Symposium in Chapel on Friday, February 12. During the sectional meetings in the afternoon, the returning graduates briefly stated what was involved in their work, to prepare the girls to ask questions within the field the next morning in the round tables. Weary, after a day's travel, speaking, and receiving at the reception held for them in the Art Museum Friday evening, the grads returned to the dormitories.

Saturday afternoon, after the round tables, in Warner Hall a series of four lectures were given. Mary L. Ela (lower right), art department head at Berea College, gave an enthusiastic talk about art and its relation to the community. Others talked about dramatics, parent education, and music.

On Monday, March first, Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, was brought to Oberlin under the auspices of the Public Affairs Society. Particularly emphasized was the need of college men and women to reenforce the army of laborers.

Of the efforts of organized labor he said, "Raising the standard of living of forty million laborers within the United States is not a selfish motive, for it affects fully ninety per cent of the nation."

WASHINGTON

About twenty alumni were present at the Senior-Alumni Stag held February 22. The men led discussions in the following fields: law, journalism, medicine, teaching, banking and investments, manufacturing and business, advertising, and social work. The stags were held after a dinner at the Oberlin Inn where men of the senior class acted as hosts.

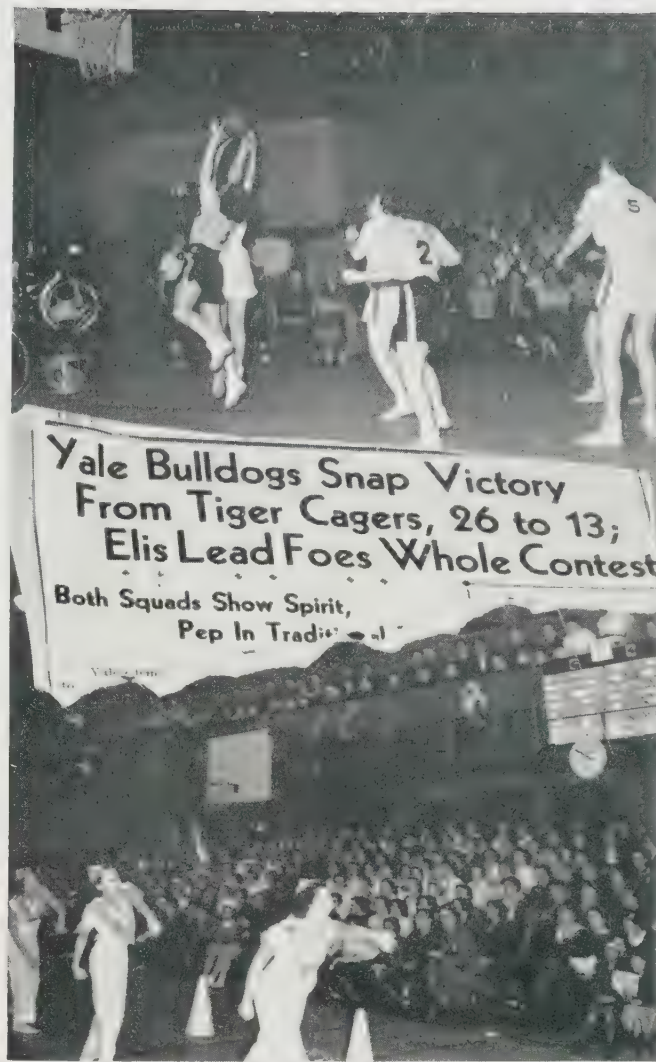

It will be a long time before the audience who attended the first production of the Mummers, "Arabesque," on February 26 and 27, forgets the delightful melodies of "Out Where the Night Begins," "As Long as I Live," and "I'm Getting Communistic Over You." The show, which centered around Abdul McSanderson, Scotch-Arab chieftain, and his relations with an English research party, was written and produced entirely by students.

Olin Downs once said of Georges Enesco, "Once in a great while there steps upon the stage a man born only to be a musician; an artist in whose face and eyes and carriage is something of what he is going to do—something which makes the beholder and the listener immediately aware that music is to be dispensed greatly."

On March 18, the tigers and bulldogs held their traditional battle in the men's gymnasium. The girls hope to have a gym of their own in the near future where they may hold their annual Yale-Princeton basketball game, although the men this year respected the traditional ruling that the event be entirely feminine. One student sent a telegram to Susie Rohn, W. A. A. president, which said, "Decided to cooperate with you. However, I know your games are good," signed—"One of the boys." Said a statement in the Review, "The Y-P Board was pleased with this indication that the men understood what the board has been trying to say for years. That is, that the boys are excluded only because of lack of space."

Ninth Annual Intramural Festival To Be Gala Affair

Holding its Ninth Annual Festival on March 12, the Intramural Department found Warner Gymnasium filled beyond capacity. The events were more varied and thrilling than ever before. One of the special features was a deep-sea diver who rescued from a ship sunk on the floor of the gym, three treasures, which the students recognized as being the new Women's Gymnasium, Hall Memorial Auditorium, and the new Art Annex.

The praise for this year's successful athletic show goes to Herbert Weinberg, Senior Intramural Manager, Dr. J. H. Nichols, Charlie Throner, and Miss Marion Mann.

Decide Definitely To Reroute No. 20 South of Oberlin

That Federal Highway No. 20 will be rerouted to the south of Oberlin was definitely determined at a recent conference between Assistant Highway Director and a special committee of the Business Men.

A Cappella Will Tour Mid-West This Spring

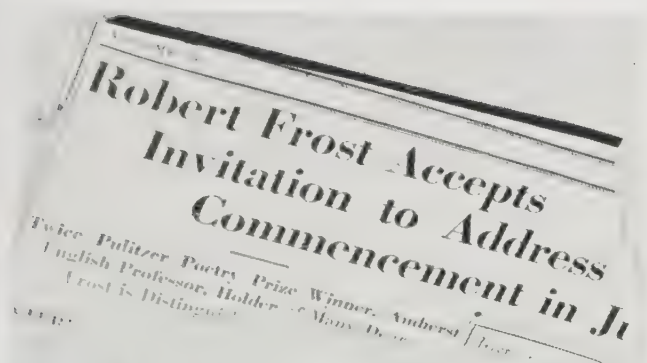

The A Cappella Choir in its annual spring tour which this year will take it through Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin, will make their appearance in Illinois. Wednesday they jump to White Fish Bay, a suburb of Milwaukee, where they will perform for the first time.

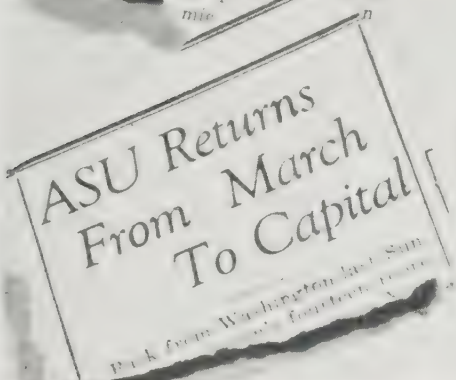

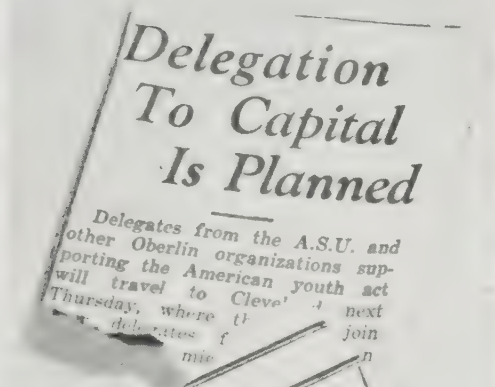

On March 19 and 20 an Oberlin audience witnessed the second production of the Dramatic Association for this term. The title of the play, "The Wind and the Rain," is taken from the song which closes the action of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night."

It is a story of medical student life in a Scotch University. There is the triangle which includes a student, the girl at home, and the new flame just recently met at school. Verbal hair-pullings and surprise entrees by other student roomers constitute the fun.

According to those well-qualified to speak, this play was presented better by the Association than it has been by many professional groups.

Robert Lee Frost accepted the invitation to deliver the commencement address to the Senior Class of 1937. Frost, who at the age of 15 sold his first poem for $15, is noted for his interpretation of New England life and has probably received more honors than any other living American poet.

On March 26 a dog team and sled were stopped in Oberlin because of snow; the sled had wheels. Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Carroll arrived in Oberlin with their dog team after having spent a year mushing across the continent from their home, Hazelton, B. C., toward Halifax, N. S.

Mrs. Carroll said that she was colder when standing at a corner of the Oberlin Campus than when sitting on a bed of cedar branches in the north woods, where it was forty below zero.

Many of the students bought souvenir post-cards of the visitors and found the dogs to be very affectionate. While running on Galpin field, two of the dogs, Tamarack and Teabone engaged in a bloody battle, but little damage was done for Mr. Carroll soon separated them.

On April 2, a special session of the board of trustees was held at the conclusion of which was announced the appointment of two new Deans.

To assume the position of Dean of College and Conservatory Women, Miss Marguerite Woodworth will come to Oberlin next September from Lawrence College in Wisconsin, where she is now Dean of Women.

Dr. Carl Frederick Wittke, eminent historian and chairman of the Department of History at Ohio State University was appointed to succeed Charles N. Cole, retired, as Dean of the College.

Jacques Kayser, vice-president of the Radical Socialist Party in France and professor at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes International, spoke in Oberlin on March 18 and 19 under the auspices of the Cosmopolitan Club. He spoke on "The Evolution of Europe since the War."

"There is no Franco-German problem," said he, "but a European problem. There will be no peace between Germany and France for long unless there is peace all over Europe."

ORGANIZATIONS FOR TIME OUT . . .

A CAPELLA CHOIR: most any afternoon at four

Webster says, "vocal chorus without accompaniment," but to Oberlin, A Capella means Friday chapel. For the choir's fifty-five members the privilege of singing under Professor Olaf Christiansen means rehearsal four days a week at Rice Hall from four to five o'clock. Only sacred music is practiced by this group for their numerous concerts in Oberlin and surrounding communities.

Choosing forty-five from the chorus to make a tour through four middle-western states during the spring vacation, Director Christiansen expects the trip to be an annual affair, for it is through concert experience that the choir will develop further.

AELIOIAN won the scroll

After winning the scroll for original literary compositions at the inter-literary society banquet in the previous spring, Aelioian was ready to embark on a year's study of the early nineteenth century romantic poets. Mr. Artz set the historical stage of that century at an early meeting, and following programs were concerned with the life and writings of such men as Shelley, Keats and Byron.

Amending the constitution, the organization increased its possible membership from twenty-five to thirty, and new members were admitted both semesters. A deviation from custom second semester put a spring formal on the social calendar instead of the usual rec.

Top Row: G. Quackenbush, D. Campbell, M. L. Dull, S. Wight, M. Jacobs, E. Seedenburg, B. Smith.

Second Row: C. Nerby, B. Mook, M. Griswold, H. MacLaury, H. Snyder, M. Dale, E. Aldrich, B. Hastings.

First Row: E. Neel, P. Weaver, K. McCullough, R. Groff, P. Agate, F. Judd, J. Nash, E. Graham, L. Hall, J. Edwards.

A. C. E. meets in the puttery

Third Row: M. Schlueter, M. Stewart, H. Lindbeck, D. Chase, H. Irwin, M. Cleaver.

Second Row: V. Brien, B. McClelland, R. Kappelt, M. Baldwin, H. Snyder, H. Laird, G. Roberts.

First Row: M. Wood, V. Bingham, E. Stratton, R. Groff, Miss Rankin, E. Chase, Miss Yocom, R. Coblentz, E. L. Smith.

When the local Kindergarten-Primary Department had outgrown itself, it enlarged its sphere by forming a student branch of the National Association for Childhood Education. They meet in the "puttery"—40 South Professor—and with pillows for chairs, around an open fire they have discussed religious training for children with Dr. Horton, and problem children with Professor Cole. The organization hopes to bring the majors of the department into closer contact with each other and their subject.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION: "We're strange creatures"

Top Row: V. Van Fossan, R. Andrews, J. Wieland.

First Row: R. Fauver, Mrs. K. W. Kuhns, Mrs. R. Johnson, T. Dye.

To freshmen, alumni are strange creatures—sophomores are aware of their existence—juniors have met a few on the campus—seniors begin to realize that in the near future they will be these "strange creatures" themselves. The Alumni Office becomes the medium for the continuance of their interest in Oberlin. The Alumni Magazine brings them news of the campus and their friends.

The year 1936-37 is significant in the history of the Alumni Association. The Constitution was brought up to date by the new officers under the leadership of President Ralph Andrews; a special literary issue of the Magazine was published by the Resident Secretary, Virginia Van Fossan; and the Alumni Fund program was launched by the newly appointed General Alumni Secretary, Carroll K. Shaw. The Alumni-Senior Stag established valuable connections for the job seekers.

New alumni can join a program embracing the direct support of Oberlin, stimulating social and intellectual contacts among Oberlinites throughout the world.

A. S. U. tended modernly

M. Melville, L. Wechsler, W. Bowers, A. Millman, P. MacEacheron, L. MacEacheron.

Seated: C. Tinker, A. Ferguson, S. Catlin, L. Symons, E. Levin.

Around the table: R. Ranney, E. Hull, A. Ferguson, J. Fuller, F. Tucker, R. Bowers, H. Tolen, M. Kriete, M. Williams.

For and by the students themselves—the A. S. U. is a national organization for protection of fundamental rights. Formed in the same manner as a labor union, the A. S. U. is non-political and works for the security of students everywhere. At Oberlin, its activities are directed by committees on peace, labor, the American Youth Act, cooperatives, student problems, and education.

Outstanding in the year's program was a pilgrimage of fourteen Oberlin students to Washington, D. C. to work for the passage of the American Youth Act. At Christmas time, six delegates attended the national conference in Chicago where Paul MacEacheron was elected to the national executive committee.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS: they're promoters

J. Fuller, president, M. Kriete, M. H. Williams, F. Tucker, Ward Hubbard, D. Pye, Wells Hubbard, B. A. Hull, A. Ferguson, H. Tolen.

Helping to bring to the Oberlin campus Mr. Alexander and Mr. Sen who toured the country visiting and lecturing to student groups, the Student Volunteers meet every two weeks to study and help promote foreign Christian work of all kinds. A state retreat, held at Oberlin in the fall, was concerned with a new movement calling itself the World Student Christian Fellowship. Modern trends such as the Oxford and cooperative movements come to the attention of the Volunteers for study and discussion.

The organization has fifteen members, each of whom takes his turn at leading the meetings. Jo Fuller is president.

MARCHING BAND: puts the pep in pep rallies

Creators of pep for athletic contests and pep rallies, the marching band is the oldest of the three campus bands. At the annual band concert in the fall it played with the women's and concert bands during the last section of the program. Airing their talents, the marching band gave concerts in nearby communities. Under the conductors of Bill Tibbetts and Jack Rumbarger, the band practices in the fall on the M. B. campus; in winter in the conservatory.

This year's new caps were anticipatory of new uniforms expected next year. For the first time the marching band has had a membership of over 42 members, this year's number being 48, under the leadership of Bob Smith and Bob Sharp.

CONCERT BAND: On the Trail

At the annual fall concert the band enthralled the audience with "Liebestod" from Tristan und Isolde, and delighted the audience with "On the Trail" from The Grande Canyon Suite.

It is the function of the concert band to give those people having experience in concert band work the opportunity to continue that experience; to give to its participants and to Oberlin students the best in band literature. In April representatives from the Oberlin band attended a conference at Muskingum.

Climaxing the year, the concert band along with the other two bands held their annual banquet at the Oberlin Inn. President of the band for the first semester was Vernon Reeder; for the second, Nathaniel Gatlin. Student conductors for the two semesters were Robert Bowlus and Charles Fehl.

WOMEN'S BAND blared and echoed and filled a need

The women's band gives its members the opportunity to play the best military band music; to its listeners, the opportunity to hear it. Playing at all the home football games along with the marching band, and alternating with it at home basketball games, the band has blared and echoed through a successful season. In the fall, they joined the other two bands for their annual home concert, and also gave an out-of-town performance with them.

Organized some time after the men's marching band, and resulting from the feeling of a distinct need, the women's band is now firmly established as a musical organization and deeply rooted in the soil of Oberlin tradition. President and student conductor for the first semester were Lillis Baker and Alleen Strong; for the second; Natalie Rose and Winifred Roberts.

Third Row: L. Fees, G. Gray, J. Baird, R. Stannard, W. Bowers, R. Forney, D. Gibson.

Second Row: R. Blair, G. Parsch, M. Sprague, R. McGinnis, H. Mattick, J. Guernsey.

First Row: A. Winkler, C. Weaver, A. Schmitkons.

Top Row: A. Zelvis, M. L. Trimmer, M. Forbes, B. Johnston, M. Shields, L. Ewers, R. Porritt, N. Ferris, H. Santner.

Third Row: M. Kuhl, H. Hassol, W. Roberts, M. Ferran, C. VanPeurse, F. Lowe, O. Curtis, R. E. Dulmage, P. Bockelman, S. Trageser, G. Buckman, M. Buckman.

Second Row: C. Richards, B. Bishop, E. Hughes, E. Prentice, D. Frair, R. Brooke.

First Row: J. Fuller, N. Rose, A. Brand, R. Sproul, C. Harris, M. Bacon, M. Sprague, E. Sherwood, M. Foster, G. Jackson, R. Reichenbach, E. Jones, Mr. Waln.

THE COSMOPOLITAN CLUB found room for itself

Having a room of its own for the first time, the Cosmopolitan Club's ninety-nine members now meet at the M. B. amidst decorations of flags and emblems of various peoples. Twenty countries are represented and practically every state of the Union in this club which is to further a feeling of international good will.

Represented on the state cabinet of the Cosmo Club by Jo Fuller, who is state treasurer, Oberlin's club is the most active in the state. Several members attended the fall state convention at Ohio State and others attended the spring convention at Kent.

FORENSIC UNION "bargained four thousand"

Top Row: J. Schwertman, S. Dye, S. Dubin, E. Carlson, L. Bernick, J. Morrill, J. Guernsey.

Second Row: E. Broderick, G. Winwood, M. Carter, M. Barry, M. Saunders, J. Hornbeck, D. Morrill.

First Row: J. Lindsay, J. Philips, H. Weinberg, L. Goodenough, V. Junge, E. Sisson, A. Henick.

Perhaps it is true that "talk is cheap;" at any rate Oberlin debaters found a ready market for their wares. The items offered included complete debates on the issues of the political campaign, social security, economic internationalism, and consumers' cooperatives. The group of fifty salesmen and saleswomen "delivered the goods" to Kiwanians, Rotarians, P. T. A.'s, high schools, and other organizations, to the number of about forty; and their inter-collegiate market included American University in Washington, Harvard, and Williams in Massachusetts, and Allegheny, Wooster, Ohio Wesleyan, and Mount Union in the home district.

The debate car travelled upwards of six thousand miles during the season, and around four thousand people received the benefits of the "bargain." This is an enviable sales record for a single year.

"We sit and wait for business, hoping nothing does turn up:" HONOR COMMITTEES

J. Adamson, H. Irwin, N. Rose, K. Funk, B. J. Strawbridge, V. Brien, M. McCleary.

Until student violations of the honor system cease, or the old proctor system returns to the campus, the honor committees will continue to function as the organs for education students in the ways of academic honor. Besides attempting to eliminate conditions conducive to cheating, the committees act judicially in cases reported to them of violation of the code.

Each spring popular ballot elects the chairman of the women's committee to office; the men's chairman and remaining members of the committees are appointed. Bob Dixon and Jean Adamson have headed the committees this year, sponsoring a chapel program on which Mr. Henry Sams, English instructor, explained to the student body the significance of honorable conduct in scholastic work.

.. L. S.: they got new sherbet glasses

With rejuvenated surroundings, new curtains, drapes, lamps, and a new set of sherbet glasses in its cupboard, L. L. S. started the year of '36-'37 by creating a new system of meetings. The society divided the year up into five periods, devoting them to the study of novel, drama, essay, debate, and poetry. A chairman was appointed for each group and members of the society were called upon to contribute their talents at the meetings.

All was not work, for the play element predominated at the Christmas party, the fall rec, and the spring formal, when L. L. S. combined with the other literary societies.

The real opening number for the Men's Glee Club consisted of tryouts in the fall, a long session of regular practices, and short local trips grinding into shape a large, well-balanced group of voices. Then the boys were ready for their Christmas trip through Southern Ohio, West Virginia, and Kentucky, assisted by Larry Gill and his orchestra. Canton was remembered for the first performance, McKeesport for the girls they met last year, Pittsburgh for a KDKA broadcast and Ziegfeld from the second balcony, Grafton for a hotel with seventy rooms and one bath, and Warren for its hotel slot machines.

The home concert attracted a full house, the last public appearance of the club till June and the commencement concert.

Coached and coaxed: MUMMERS

Brain child of Bob Cogswell, the Mummers Club celebrated its first year of existence with an original musical comedy, Arabesque, given in February. Coached and coaxed by Chuck Irvin, the all-male cast put on the performance to the rhythm of a Wes Romaine-directed orchestra which played music of student composition.

Behind the scenes several groups of women lent a feminine touch to costumes, properties and make-up; they also designed the settings and directed the dancing.

The purpose of the club is to present annually a student musical comedy. The executive board of ten, elected in the spring from members of the junior and sophomore classes, is assisted by faculty advisors K. F. Williams, J. H. Hall, and W. H. Seaman.

The O. C. CLUB: they meet in the pool room

Only members know what goes on inside when O. C. Club initiates newly elected women down in the game room of the pool. Contests, impromptu programs, and races test the fortitude and originality of initiates, who are only eligible for election to membership in this women's honorary athletic organization when they have earned 500 points in four different sports.

Eight students and eight faculty were members during this past year, Peg Richardson being president. On becoming a member a student undertakes the distribution of ideals of good sportsmanship which, as an individual, each is supposed to embody.

O. D. A.: pirates, rain, and barbecues

W. Hinkey, President J. Belding, M. Brand, H. Kimball,
J. S. McLaughlin, C. Freary, R. Lewis, M. Updegraff.

Inspired by the Oberlin weather and Mr. MacLaughlin, the Dramatic Association produced "Wind and the Rain" just before spring vacation. The comedy of Scottish university life was not intended as propaganda to allow women in men's dormitories. Vacation brought to an end a series of bus trips into Cleveland to see current stage productions, bus trips that often included a stop at Poschke's for a barbecue sandwich on the way home. First semester's big event was the production of the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Pirates of Penzance" for which standing room was sold on Saturday night. It left Oberlin humming "Poor Wandering One."

Tradition was shattered this year when the O. D. A. gave the usual commencement play in May instead of in June thus giving the whole student body a chance to see the big production of the year. Furthermore, the class one-acts which have heretofore been given at this time were presented before a selected audience in the dramatic studio on North Main Street.

Two new editors, a new telephone, four new contests, and a "new" Olympian this year worked to encourage creative writing, and to give the student body an attractive magazine, satisfying in its content. The contests brought forth the best in short stories, essays, poetry and cover illustrations; the editors, Laurie Perrine and Dale MacAdoo, editing cooperatively, brought forth the best in campus magazines.

A worn-out candle stuck firmly into an old bottle and four new Olympians in shelves on the desk remain to be passed on to next year's editor for better or . . .

PEACE SOCIETY provoked heavy mail

V. Ballard, M. Cowles, C. Tinker, E. Sisson, C. Nixon, C. Schneider, R. Sanderson.

Many senators received letters from Oberlin students concerning the peace legislation which passed before Congress this year. Inspiration for this letter-writing campaign was provided by the Peace Society in their efforts to further intelligent understanding and action towards the achievement of peace—an understanding and an incentive to carry over in later life. With this aim in mind, Peace Bulletins were edited monthly to keep members informed about peace movements and what individual action to take.

Coming to the campus at the invitation of this organization, Rennie Smith de Madariaga, Sir Herbert Ames, and Brooks Emeny presented their analysis of the world situation. Going from the campus to outside communities, members of the Peace Society talked about peace policies as part of their educational program.

The P. A. SOCIETY bombarded eligibles

T. Lewis, L. Goodenough, J. Goodrich, W. Sprague, A. Blodgett.

Playing foster-father to the two new political organizations that appeared on the campus last fall, the Public Affair Society stood firmly behind the Young Republicans and Roosevelt Clubs. With all the gusto of a true political campaign these two groups boosted their candidates for president, gave fiery speeches, and passed out party pins. The absentee voting campaign was begun in August, when all eligible student voters were bombarded with instructions for registration and absentee voting. Later, a poll of student and faculty votes was taken once again disproving the statement, "As Oberlin goes . . . " Speakers brought here by the society included John Bricker, gubernatorial candidate, Dr. Walter J. Campbell of the Social Security Board, and Sydney Hillman of the C. I. O.

International literature was the general subject which the Phi Alphs studied during the year. Three meetings were devoted to a consideration of phases of the drama, and several more to the impromptu reading of plays, the year's program ending with the inter-literary society banquet.

The social activities of the group included informal meetings and a reception for new members in the fall, besides a rec and a spring formal. Under their president, Betty Holmes, the group attempts to acquaint itself with different types of literature and to gain a better understanding of them.

As our representatives take Oberlin to China, the Shansi Committee brings China to Oberlin. Technically there are twelve members, but this year eight succeeded in doing a very admirable job. They not only chose two members of the class of '37, namely Charlotte Tinker and Herb Van Meter, to go to Oberlin-in-Shansi for three years, but they also planned and successfully carried through two chapel programs and a number of teas at Goodrich. Lecturers and speakers on things Chinese were brought to the campus during the year. When the suspense of the Shansi Day chapel was over, the committee had finished its big job of the year: choosing two people to typify Oberlin to its collegiate relatives on the other side of the world.

The REVIEW reverberates world news

Roger Hamilton, Editor

W. Sprague, R. Quin, F. Brewster, R. Hogue,
P. Agate, J. Deer.

Jack Adam, business manager

Not news that students should read, but news they want to read was printed in the Review this year in accordance with a please-the-student policy of the staff. Changing the type of headlines last fall, the staff created a more professional news sheet. More cartoons, cuts, features, and news columns filled its four pages. United Press flashes from Cleveland brought reverberations of world news to Review columns. At the time of elections, returns received over the wire every half hour were speedily carried by Review messengers to the election party in progress at the M. B.

A second policy of the Review was one of questioning and calling attention to activities of organizations that concern all or most of the students on the campus, believing this to be the prerogative and duty of every college paper. Probing issues that seem to demand questioning, the paper tries to reflect and lead, insofar as possible, student opinion.

A tip from Mr. Williams set the SIGMA GAMMAS going

Following where the modern novel leads, the members of Sigma Gamma this year were hot on the trail of all that is new in creative writing. Its 26 members took a tip from Mr. Kenneth Williams on how to judge a modern novel, and proceeded to read about and discuss modernity in literature.

An informal reception for new members, readings by Mrs. Dana, and a Christmas party helped to liven Gamma spirits with a touch in the lighter vein.

Luncheon meetings on Mondays and afternoons of discussion around the dining room table in Goodrich have not been spent in vain. The Student Council has brushed itself up in a number of ways under the energetic leadership of Herb Van Meter. Next year's Council will have the advantages of two new institutions which have been organized under the present regime, namely the new all-college social committee and the organizations council. Class representatives on the former committee will supervise all-college social affairs; the Council vice-president will be chairman of the group. Growing out of this year's controversy over the Council's stand regarding AYA, the second committee will be a forum group made up of organization presidents who will represent the student opinion of their groups. A constitutional amendment was necessary to bring about this second innovation.

Not least among the Council's activities was the Campus Carnival in the fall with its booths, dancing and fun. At mid-year exam time their social committee put on a Flunkers' Frolic which included everything from tiddley-winks and dancing to swimming.

They dusted off the old constitution, found it lacking, tossed it out, and made a new one, these energetic officers of WAA under their go-getting president Sue Rohn. Not content with reorganizing the whole outfit, the board made Oberlin modern dancing conscious by bringing to the campus such artists as Conna Bell Shaw, Jose Limon, Catharine Litz and Lillian Shapiro.

And the annual Yale-Princeton basketball game that leaves the men womenless for a night is planned in all its endless detail by these same women and an appointed manager, this year Margaret Stanion.

They boast that any girl can find enough sports to run her ragged in the variety offered by the WAA with the generous cooperation of the P. E. faculty.

Covering over a thousand miles by bus, the Women's Glee Club was entertained by several colleges in Kentucky, Southern Ohio and West Virginia whose hospitality was ample compensation for the jolts and bumps of a twelve day trip, the annual tour taken by the club during spring vacation. As usual the journey was filled with last minute rushing to make an engagement on time, unexpected meetings, and new friends charmed by Oberlin's feminine singers.

Two practices a week during the fall and winter under Director Jack Wirkler, prepared the women for their home concert in March.

The prodigal outing club returned to its father YMCA to find new branches: the bicycle club, the photography club, a training course in game leadership, Freshman discussion groups, which latter two branches were carried on in cooperation with the YWCA.

Cooperating again with the YW and with the religious interest committee of the faculty, the YM brought three outstanding speakers to the campus: Dr. Charles Gilkey, Dr. Grace L. Elliot, and Dr. William Boddy. The source of activity was, this year, the Sunday morning cabinet meetings, which were open to every student. Largely discussional in nature, these meetings, as did the whole Y program, attempted to introduce to the students more adequate philosophies of life.

Omnis Gallia and the YWCA in tres partes divisa est. The three parts of Gallia we leave to Caesar, but the parts of the YW are given to Oberlin in the form of small groups under selected leadership which carry on world fellowship, social action, and village work. The second part is that of co-operation with YMCA in work at the Children's Home, in bringing speakers to the campus, in sponsoring student-faculty discussions, and in planning weekly vespers. The third part is the YWCA entire with a membership of 664 women which coordinates the program besides taking care of all-association meetings, installation services, and the Geneva banquet where the new cabinet takes office.

Through this three-fold program the YWCA seeks to provide opportunity for the religious growth of the individual.

The WOMEN'S LEAGUE initiated activity cards and freshmen

Second Row: C. Harris, S. Rohn, J. Johnson, E. Lyman, J. Collings. First Row: J. Adamson, M. McCord, V. Deringer, H. Kerr, F. Lowe, J. Brown, B. Smith.

Bringing to the campus such women as Ruth Tracy Millard, Mary Ela, and Dr. Verna Christophel, the Women's League sponsored a vocational symposium in February for the college women. Speakers were eighteen recent graduates of Oberlin who have achieved notable success in different vocations.

This year initiating a new system of activity cards to be filled out by the freshmen and permanently filed, the League hopes to utilize more student ability rather than concentrating duties upon a few.

The League sponsors the Women's Senate composed of house presidents. These two bodies legislate and supervise the activities of Oberlin's women.

In the fall, the freshmen had the Women's League to thank for furnishing the verdant distinctions selected by the Sophs.

MEN'S COMMITTEE: select stag line

To oboe undulations danced three stalwart grass-skirted males, and Oberlin's population gaped at their fascinating gyrations—headliners in the Campus Carnival which the Men's Committee directed in the fall.

Other than their duties of entertainment provision and arranging stags, the Committee, headed by Mel Kennedy, is responsible for the appointment of the chairman of the Men's Honor Committee. Aside from its chairman, this select stag line is composed of the eight class presidents and the Y president.

ATHLETICS FOR FUN

INTRAMURALS: within the walls

The Intramural department, now in its ninth year, provides organized recreation for the scholastically overburdened students who do not care to take part in the more strenuous work of the intercollegiate team practice. Its program including inter-class competition in all of the major sports and inter-house or individual competition in a great many others, is climaxed by the Intramural Festival which concludes the winter season.

At the Festival, the entire program of the department is given an airing before the student body and the inter-house and individual championship awards are made. The system of cumulative house points with the All-Sports House Award as the prize to the house having the highest number of points has made house competition especially keen and has created friendly inter-house rivalries that bring out the best of sportsmanship. The Intramural managers who, under the direction of the senior manager, H. Weinberg, direct all intramural competition, get besides manager's numerals and later manager's sweaters, a liberal education in the art of being extremely unpopular in a pleasant way.

FOOTBALL AND FIGHTING YEOMEN . . .

Fighting against heavier, more experienced teams, subsidizing, and game dates, the Butler Toughies in spite of many casualties came through the season with three victories, one moral victory, and five defeats. The team which with several burly sophomores and a good number of experienced men promised to be one of the best teams in recent years was greatly weakened by early season injuries. The loss of Captain Wickenden for the season in the Case game was a great blow. Home crowds witnessed the best games of the season, all games won being on the Oberlin Field.

BEHIND THE SCENES

Every week day, rain or snow (and sometimes shine), the practice field was filled with varsity players and aspirants blocking, tackling, kicking, running, urged on by the coaches' challenge, "You can have this game if you will fight."

THEY CAPTAIN

Captain Wickenden, the locker-room crooner, with his enthusiasm and spirit led the team fighting through a season which had many tough breaks and hard knocks. Next year's captain, Bob Harrison, was one of Captain Wickenden's most stalwart teammates. His fight and strength under fire makes him a strong leader for next year's team.

After getting off to a slow start, Dan Kinsey's track and field men ran through a hard season fighting at every turn to hold their slight lead and sprinted to the finish to win the big six championship by a good margin. With a small but strong group of letter men to form a nucleus and a large and talented aggregation of prospective letter men, Mr. Kinsey built a strong well-balanced team which made an impressive record in spite of its greenness. Bowing only to a better-trained Ohio Wesleyan team, the sprinters plowed through a tough season of Big Six competition with more than usual success. At the end of each meet, Mr. Kinsey's hair was a little grayer and a little thinner from worrying over the close score, but the satisfied smile on his face told of another victory for the yeomen.

Hampered by a cold, wet spring, the team was late in getting out to the track and in spite of intensive training was in poor condition for the first meet, but soon after hit its stride and kept in tip-top form through the rest of the season. Under the guidance of Captain George Manlove, the team travelled through one of the most successful seasons of recent years; Richards beat Chegg-widen, Barnes showed the conference how to broad jump, Eshelman consistently broke the tape in the dashes, and Maxwell showed everybody how to pole vault. With a large number of the track men back next year, Oberlin ought to have another history making season.

SLUGGERS

C. Cook, R. Price, J. Copeland, W. Cooper.
K. Mytinger, K. Boycheff, Capt. D. Branigan, R. Dixon, J. Rogers.

With almost all new men, the Thronerites started out on a difficult season with but one day of outdoor practice. Thus hampered, they fought a losing battle until the last part of the season when they picked up enough to warrant the words of Coach Throner, "I wouldn't swap 'em for any other college bunch in Ohio!"

SPORTS FOR WOMEN . . .

She may have much skill or little, possess great athletic prowess or only modest ability, but a woman in Oberlin has the opportunity to participate in games and individual sports which she enjoys. A P. E. department generous with its time and equipment makes such a varied activity possible. Those who go in for group sports have baseball, hockey, volleyball, and basketball teams to join either as class or house members. And the individual or partner sports range from hiking and tennis to badminton and fencing.

Amid the cheering of the women who packed Warner gym, Yale defeated Princeton 26-13 in the all-star basketball game which ended the winter sport season. Athletic displays, house stunts, and announcement of election returns complete this evening of celebration for Oberlin women.

BULLDOGS—TIGERS

When women take to water . . .

Class meets bring out the best women swimmers to vie with each other for pool honors; six practices make one eligible for a class team. This year frosh women won the swimming cup though they had stiff competition from a strong senior team.

Team members have no monopoly on the pool however, for every afternoon sees Oberlin women practicing life-saving, being coached in diving and form swimming by Mrs. Domonkos and Miss Dick, or just paddling around for the exercise. Student life savers are on guard duty each day, though business for them is never rushing.

MEN . . .

A period of national prosperity brought to Oberlin in the fall of 1936 a freshman class of 189 men and 166 women. They have discovered that the only rumble seat is the handle bars of a bike; that libe dates are the cheapest; and that Oberlin winters aren't as cold as they had been warned.

MORES . . .

The class of thirty-nine was crying in its cradles when the bands were playing "Over There." Last May, this first male heavy class for four years entered with 165 men and 153 women in time to take part in the Mock Convention. . . They pushed a gigantic hundred-dollar ball over the Frosh instead of preventing them from climbing a greased pole, and they paid a bill not for a cow, but for repairs in a ruined frosh dormitory.

CONSERVATORY

Having had the tremolo times, and having become acquainted with the Oberlin poco a poco, they begin to take things in titenuto. They are no longer fortissimo, but rather only forte. At the end of the year they have disposed of the obligato and plan to go from the piano to the forte, from the Con to the College, or to fermata as they are.

COLLEGE

Starting in 1934 with 182 men and 193 women, blue books, fickle minds, and lack of finances reduced this number to 141 men and 150 women, showing that women are still the weaker sex. . . The Juniors started 1936 with a deficit of $125, and plan for a surplus of $150 at the end of this term. They're a class of athletes, stealing cups, trophies, and ribbons in all divisions of sports.

COLLEGE

The Senior Class, born in the dark days of the Great Depression, a day of closed banks and business failures, had to pay a tuition of only $225. They go into a world that has seen four years of a New Deal and now shines in the light of a Great Prosperity, in time to escape a rise in tuition to $300.

A black and white photograph showing three individuals in a library or study. An older man with glasses, wearing a dark suit and tie, stands behind a large, dark wooden desk. Seated at the desk are a young man on the left and a young woman on the right. The young man is wearing a light-colored sweater over a dark collared shirt and is looking down at an open book on the desk. The young woman is wearing a light-colored sweater and is also looking at the book. The background features tall bookshelves filled with numerous books. A small framed picture hangs on the wall above the desk. The overall atmosphere is quiet and studious.

The most cosmopolitan of the three schools making up the Oberlin campus is the Graduate School of Theology. This interdenominational school has its sixty students divided into three classes—junior, middle, and senior—training for the ministry or other religious work. Among these are students from Trinidad, Jamaica, Sierra Leone, New Zealand, Italy, Japan, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, and China. Its students' organization is the Theological Union.

With KODAK BANTAM SPECIAL

the light is always right

Let us show you some of its superb black-and-white and full-color "stills"

Shoot early or late, in sun or rain; go after lightning-swift action; snap away indoors . . . you get needle-sharp negatives with Kodak Bantam Special; and your enlargements are great.

Super lens, Kodak Anastigmat EKTAR f.2.0. 1/500 Compur-Rapid shutter. Coupled range finder takes the "guess" out of distance. Loaded with Kodachrome Film, Bantam Special gives you full-color transparencies, to be viewed as they are or mounted in slides for large-size projection. Kodak Bantam Special $110; convenient terms may be arranged.

MARY BRAND RUGGLES, Manager

We take this opportunity to thank those in the Conservatory and College, who have appreciated our efforts to serve them during this past year.
And we extend greetings to the Mothers and Dads with memories of the "good old days" and their experiences in the College life.
